Tom Oliver proposed to the club that sellers may choose to have a "buy it now" price for items placed in the club auction. If a bidder places his bidder number on the "buy it now" price, the item will be excluded from further bidding. The club voted on the proposal and approved the proposal by a majority vote.

Program: Tom Hallenbeck, president of the American Numismatic Association (ANA), gave a talk about recent events within the ANA. He started by giving a brief overview of the recent ANA elections in which he became President. He then gave his opinion about the future of numismatics and the outreach the ANA does with both the Summer Seminar held each year in Colorado Springs and the conventions that are held annually across the country. He recounted his time as a young numismatist working as a page at some of the conventions from "yesteryear" delivering coins between coin dealers at the shows. This discussion then led to the National Money Show that will be held in Denver, CO in May, 2012. During this discussion, he admitted that the ANA committee that is responsible for finding a local sponsor club did not promote the show very well. Even though the Denver Coin Club decided in the May 2011 club meeting to decline the invitation to be the sponsor club, the club decided to reopen this discussion during the August meeting after Chuck D'Ambra volunteered to act as Host Chairman. The DCC then voted by a majority vote to act as the sponsor club for the 2012 National Money Show. Additional details including the selection of members for the other chair positions will be discussed in future club meetings.
